

UNIVERSITY
OF JUDAISM

DEPARTMENT OF
ENGLISH & LITERATURE

January 28, 2002

To Whom It May Concern:

Gabriana Marks was a student in my Public Speaking course last semester, where she was an active and thoughtful member of the class.

I find Gabriela has several qualities that make a good student: she is conscientious, intelligent, open to criticism and a hard worker. The class required that students write, rehearse and present a speech each week, a formidable task. Gabriela consistently presented excellent work, progressively improving during the term; she left the class an excellent public speaker. The other major element of the class was criticism and analysis by the students of their classmates' presentations. Gabriela's responses were insightful, focused and presented with a sensitivity that was appreciated by her classmates.

Gabriana was consistently well organized and prepared for her assignments. Her speeches were creative and stimulating. She makes a positive impression on an audience and presents herself with enthusiasm and passion.

I would recommend Gabriela for any position she seeks. She would be a strong addition to any organization.

Please do not hesitate to contact me for further discussion.

Yours truly,

A handwritten signature in cursive script, appearing to read "Mitch Levine".

Mitch Levine
Lecturer in Art, Literature and Political Science
College of Arts and Sciences
Tel: (323) 856-7772
Fax: (323) 462-4049
E-mail: mlevine@uj.edu